CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE EDUCATION COURSES

SENATE BILL 1544 MANDATED DISCLOSURE

Private providers of pre-license statutory real estate courses must obtain course approval from the Department of Real Estate (DRE). As part of the approved process, the DRE reviews the course materials only. The DRE does not qualify the school or the course provider. In addition, there is no regulatory oversight of private pre-license course providers who offer courses or programs costing $500 or less. For courses or programs over $500, qualification by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education is required, in addition to DRE course approval. As a result, if a course provider offering a course costing $500 or less fails to deliver the education course/program as represented, a student's monetary remedy is to seek redress in Small Claims Court. Students are cautioned to fully understand the education course/program offered by the provider before enrolling or registering. A list of pre-license statutory courses approved by the DRE may be found on the DRE Web site at www.dre.ca.gov under DRE Records.
